SHE DIED IN GREAT AGONY.

Shocking Suicide of Mrs. Lena Davis at the Home of Her Sister.

SWALLOWED CARBOLIC ACID.

Suffered Excruciating Pain for Two Hours Before Death Ended Her Suffering.

THE CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN.

Came From Her Home in Hammond, Ind., Four Days Ago to Visit Mrs. Higgins on Kossuth Avenue.

Mrs. Lena Davis, age 21, sought death in a most horrible form Friday morning. She was visiting her sister, Mrs. James Higgins, at 3505 Kossuth avenue.

At 10 o'clock she drained the contents of a two-ounce phial that had been filled with carbolic acid.

From that hour until noon she tossed about upon a bed in great agony.

Dr. Pearce, Grand and Kossuth avenues, sat by her side and administered the antidotes known to the medical world, but with no result.

At times the woman's convulsions were so great that the physician and others who stood near by could with difficulty keep her from tearing her flesh with her finger nails and throwing herself on the floor.

Mrs. Davis came to St. Louis from Hammond, Ind. Her husband accompanied her, and after a few days at the home of Mrs. Higgins he left on a short trip, expecting to soon return.

"My sister seemed in good spirits this morning," said Mrs. Higgins.

"Nothing has occurred recently to depress her, that I am aware of, and I am at a loss to account for her action."

"I spoke to her soon after 9 o'clock, and she seemed as cheery as usual."

"The first intimation I had anything was wrong was when I heard groans coming from her room."

"Running in, I found her tossing on the bed, the empty bottle on the floor by her side. She had drained all the contents—two ounces."

Dr. Pearce arrived at the house a few minutes after Mrs. Davis' condition had been discovered. When he learned how much of the powerful acid the woman had taken he said her death was a matter of not more than a quarter of an hour.

But she clung to life with wonderful tenacity.

Some of the acid had spilled on her lips and cheeks, burning the flesh a bright red.

A reporter for the Post-Dispatch was told by Mrs. Higgins Friday afternoon that her sister probably killed herself because of trouble she had with her mother-in-law in Hammond.

Mrs. Higgins did not think of this during the excitement earlier in the day, but later certain words Mrs. Davis had let drop came to her, and she is convinced this trouble will be found to have caused the desperate act.

QUINAH PARKER ALIVE.

The Comanche Chief Smiles at Reports of His Death.

VISITED BY WHITECAPS.

Former St. Louisan Roughly Used by a Band of Masked Men in New Mexico.

DRIVEN OUT OF THE COUNTRY.

A. W. Gifford, Well-Known Here as a Mine Owner, Victim of the Mob's Indignities.

HIS GUIDE SENT WITH HIM.

Whipped Upon His Bare Back, Tarred and Feathered and Shot at Is the Treatment He Received.

Visited at midnight in his tent by armed and masked men, cursed and abused, lashed fifty times on the bare back with knotted ropes, badly tarred, given twenty-four hours to get out of the country, and threatened with hanging if he returned again.

This is the treatment received by A. W. Gifford, a former St. Louisan, while prospecting in the Sacramento range of mountains, New Mexico, near the Mesquero and Apache reservations.

It was said in a telegram from Saratoga that Mr. Gifford was accompanied by a woman whom he claimed was his sister, and that the punishment he received was inflicted by ignorant mountaineers who objected to the lax and unlawful doctrines taught by himself and the woman.

Information received from El Paso makes no reference whatever to a woman, but declares that "the white-capping of A. W. Gifford in the Sacramento mountains is another startling manifestation of the unregenerated, devilish elements that have held sway in that section for the last ten years, bull-dozing, killing and whipping good people who desire to settle up the country by honest industry."

Mr. Gifford was at the time representing the Gold Extracting, Mining and Supply Co. of Denver. He had been in that region several weeks, accompanied by Lyman Allen, a resident who acted as guide and pilot through the passes and canons.

On the night of July 25, while both Gifford and Allen were sleeping in their tents, eight masked men rushed upon them, dragged them forth and some of them stripped him to the waist. They then tied him to a tree, and with heavy, tarred ropes lashed him fifty times on the bare back. This was followed by a coat of tar and then the masked men fired twenty or thirty shots in close proximity to his body, adding a verbal warning to get out of the country or he would be more summarily dealt with. Allen was merely told to follow the prospector and never return. They made their way down the mountains to a small town from which point both men started for El Paso.

A. W. Gifford was for several years a prominent figure in the financial and mining circles of St. Louis, just beyond Monterey, Mexico. He interested capitalists here in the developments, several of whom paid him visits to the mines.

He was unsuccessful in getting them to invest and finally the property passed from him to the Rockefeller, who have now a large output of gold all the year round.

Mr. Gifford married a Miss Roberts of St. Louis, and together they lived happily in the heart of the city, in the corner of Twenty-eighth and Olive streets. Mrs. Gifford, however, became an invalid, and her husband spent large sums in procuring treatment for her.

While after Mr. Gifford's return to St. Louis his wife became a convert to the Christian Science doctrine. Then he was persecuted by doctrine and the doctrine, and he was paid more attention to Christian Science than to his business. His brother, Ed Gifford, of Monterey, who is now in the city on a business trip, made every effort to disprove his brother's beliefs and turn his attention from them, but to no purpose.

At last there was a shocking awakening. Mrs. Gifford became insane, and it is said, she has since been confined in the State Lunatic Asylum of Kansas.

This was in 1890. Mr. Gifford went away from St. Louis then and made his home in Monterey with his mother.

"I know A. W. Gifford quite well," said President Thompson of the Bank of Commerce. He had no office of his own in our building, but he used the desk of a friend, and so I saw him frequently. He was a very nice man, and I know nothing whatever of his domestic or personal affairs."

"I do not believe," said W. H. Stevenson of the Central Law Journal, "that Mr. Gifford had so woman with him in the Sacramento mountains. If he did, it was not for immoral purposes. I have received an El Paso paper of Aug. 1 describing the treatment which Gifford has been subjected. There is no mention of a woman, and there is an indignant denunciation of the little band of robbers which is said to inhabit that region."

"I knew Gifford quite well, both in St. Louis and Old Mexico. He is an impetuous, open-hearted man who loves his friends. Moreover, he was a moral man, and strictly honest in his dealings."

ACCUSED BY ANNIE SCHOS.

She Says He Compelled Her to Go to a Secluded Spot and Assaulted Her.

Patrolman Peter Dolan of the Fifth District was suspended Friday, pending investigation of serious charges.

It is alleged that Dolan enticed 16-year-old Annie Schos of 1421 Farrar street into a lumber yard, on the night of June 16 and assaulted her. The charge was formally preferred Friday by a brother of the injured girl, Chief Harrigan immediately ordered the suspension of Dolan.

It is alleged that as a result of the assault the Schos girl is confined to her bed. The girl's story is that she was on the way to her home on the night of the assault, when Dolan approached her. He ordered her to accompany him. Then he took her into a lumber yard. The girl says she was frightened so that she feared to disobey the policeman's command.

A warrant was applied for, but was refused until further information is produced.

This advertisement, which appeared in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, caught the eye of little Benjamin Cohen, whose father is a manufacturer of clothing at 530 North Third street.

Armed with references Benny went to the Rialto Building. Room 724 was closed. A young man stood in the door at room 708. He beckoned young Cohen and the lad told him the reason for his visit.

"I know somebody who wants a bright youth," said the man at 708, and going to a note, "Go to 17 South Broadway, sonny, and you'll get a nice job."

The lad trudged to that address and presented the paper. They laughed at him and told him he had better go home. The boy was downcast at not having found employment, and he showed the letter to his father. This was what the parent read: "Mr. Solicitor, Attorney-at-Law, 17 South Broadway, City."

The evidence showed that the boys had a quarrel which ended in blood. The Sprague boy threw the other down and bit his arm viciously.

The blood was not drawn, but a deep imprint was made which was shown to the magistrate at the trial.

SEVEN LIVING WIVES.

David Ellsworth Bates Eclipses All Matrimonial Records, Even in Chicago.

IS LITTLE, LEAN AND SALLOW.

Names of the Women Whom He Has Wooed, Won and Deserted.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Another warrant charging bigamy has been served on David Ellsworth Bates in his cell at the police station. It was sworn out by James I. McCarthy, who said he was the father of Mrs. Bates No. 3. The police say Bates married at least seven women, all of whom are living, and only one of them divorced. This makes the lean and saw-tooth little bookkeeper a polygamist extraordinary.

The following women have so far fled with the police their claims to Bates as husband: Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Julia McCarthy; married in Chicago three years ago; recognized by the prisoner as his true wife and dwelling at 840 West Sixty-first street.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Nettie Swalm; married Feb. 25, 1897, in Chicago and residing at 6402 Bishop street.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Anna E. Harbert, Plainfield, Mich., a sister of his brother's wife; married Sept. 11, 1893, and now in Michigan.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Nellie Howard of Kalamazoo, Mich.; married in 1885 and divorced two years later.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Ida Calderwood of Galena, Ill., who dwelt at 5401 Dearborn street, where she gave birth to a third child, recognized by the prisoner as his true wife and dwelling at 840 West Sixty-first street.

A Wisconsin sheriff believes that Bates is really Austin O. Croven, who is under indictment at Wausau, Wis., for the abduction of pretty 15-year-old Olive Vossberg some months ago. Her photograph was found in his coat. It is suggested by the police that this girl may have been one of his wives.

Bates is fair-haired and wears a blue serge suit and yachting cap. He has been employed as a clerk in the receiving department at the Union Stock Yards, and is considered a lean and saw-tooth little bookkeeper in Englewood.

For some time, in this city, according to the complaint against him, Bates has maintained two separate households, within close proximity to each other, and the detection by relatives also went under the name of Gates. His meals and time, it is said, are evenly divided between the two establishments.

Merchants in the vicinity of the Stock Yards know the young man under both names, although they never were aware of the double life he is alleged to have been leading.

The telegram received to-day from Buffalo states that he stole a bicycle from the Elson Manufacturing Co. and that he is wanted in Buffalo for grand larceny. He brought a wheel with him to Hannibal, which is now in the possession of the officers. The meet that he had arranged to hold here has been declared off.

BABY BROTHER FOLLOWS HER.

He Thought It Part of the Game and Leaped After His Sister.

LAUGHTER CHANGED TO CRIES.

The Girl Will Die From the Scalds, and It Is Feared That the Boy Is Also Fatally Injured.

A frightful accident, which will cause the death of one child and possibly of two, occurred Thursday afternoon in Belleville.

Mrs. Fred Messinger keeps a bakery on Froberg avenue. She was recently married to her second husband. She has two children by her first, a girl aged 5, and a boy aged 2.

Mrs. Messinger had the domestic fill a tub and set it in the yard, intending to wash out a few articles of clothing.

The children were having a great romp. They were racing up and down stairs and in and out of the house.

Their mother was busy and apprehending no danger paid no attention to them, further than to caution them to make less noise.

The domestic had just placed the tub opposite the back door when the little girl came tearing out through the kitchen, closely pursued by the little boy.

She stumbled and fell sideways into the boiling water.

The baby boy thought it was all in the game and with a merry shout threw himself into the tub after his sister.

Their joyful cries were turned into shrieks of agony as the water began to cook their tender flesh.

Their struggles only added to their agony. Their mother ran to the kitchen and saw the children passing through. She heard their screams and ran to them. She caught the clothing of each with one hand and lifted them out. Enveloped in a cloud of steam they were carried in the house, the agonized cries arousing the neighborhood.

Mrs. Rayhill and Healey responded quickly to a telephone call. The clothing was stripped off of the little sufferers. Flakes of flesh came with it.

The little girl was found to have been cooked from the waist down. Her recovery is not expected.

The little boy had one side terribly scalded. He may recover, but it is doubtful. Their intense pain was relieved as quickly as possible and they are swathed in antiseptic bandages and soothed with opiates.

Friday morning they were resting easily under constant care of the physicians. Both of the children are bright and pretty.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Aug. 6.—Bishop Bonacum's troubles continue. He came here yesterday with Vicar General Hartig to install Fr. O'Connor in the Catholic Church to succeed Fr. The Catholics are opposed to this and the trustees refused to give up the church without guarantees that the property would be administered in a constitutional manner.

Vicar General Hartig opened a window in the priest's house and admitted the Bishop and new priest. For this Hartig was arrested and fined $25. During the excitement the opposition put the Bishop out into the street and placed a guard over the church.

old Annie Schos of 1421 Farrar street into a lumber yard, fourteenth and Hebert streets, on the night of June 15 and assaulted her.

The charge was formally preferred Friday by a brother of the injured girl, Chief Harrigan immediately ordered the suspension of Dolan.

It is alleged that as a result of the assault the Schos girl is confined to her bed.
The girl's story is that she was on the way
to her home on the night of the assault, when Dolan approached her. He ordered her to accompany him. Then he took her into a lumber yard. The girl says she was frightened so that she feared to disobey the policeman's command.

A warrant was applied for, but was refused until further information is produced.

POLICE ARE ON THE WATCH.

Commissioner Kalbfell Has Asked the Police to Arrest
All Unlicensed Wheelmen.

License Commissioner Kalbfell has enlisted the services of the police and is going to make a raid on unlicensed bicycle riders.
He says that about 12,000 wheel owners have paid their dollar license and that there are twice that many more who defy the law.

Commissioner Kalbfell's plan is to have the police stop every cyclist and if there is not a license tag on the wheel or in the rider's possession to take charge both of the rider and wheel and make a case against them in the Police Court.

BOY WANTED—An office boy; bring references.
L. J. Westell, 724 Rialto Building.

This advertisement, which appeared in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, caught the eye of little Benjamin Cohen, whose father is a manufacturer of clothing at 530 North Third street.

The lad trudged to that address and presented the paper. They laughed at him and told him he had better go home. The boy was downcast at not having found employment and he showed the letter to his father. This is what the parent read:
"I know somebody who wants a bright youth," said the man at 708, and going to his typewriter he wrote, then signed a note.

Earl Sprague Tried in Belleville for Beating Another Boy
in a Fight.

CONVICTED AND FINE STAYED.

Witnesses Testify That the Boy
Always Bites His Foes
When Quarreling.

A peculiar case was tried before Magistrate H. M. Needles in Belleville. Earl Sprague, the 12-year-old son of Carol Sprague of Virginia avenue, was charged with assaulting and biting a 13-year-old son of Henry Strochmann. The latter instigated the prosecution.

The evidence showed that the boys had a quarrel which ended in blood. The Sprague boy threw the other down and bit his arm violently.

The blood was not drawn, but a deep imprint was made which was shown to the magistrate at the trial.

Several other lads testified that Earl was an habitual biter. They had all had fights with him and always got the worst of it because Earl bit them until they cried enough.

The boy was sentenced to the house of correction for 10 days and fined $5 and costs.
When court adjourned he called the boy to him and, reading him a severe lecture, stated the fine on his promise of good behavior.

The boy's parents cannot understand his persistence for biting and are deeply grieved over his conduct.

THE COMING DUEL.

Prince Henry of Orleans on the Way to Paris.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Aug. 6.—Prince
Henry of Orleans, in speaking of his prospective duel, said:

"I have just seen the articles in the Figaro
on the subject of the challenges sent me by the Italian officers and I find the tone of those articles just what I need."

"It is quite right to state the principle that the rights of travelers to travel what they have seen and heard should be absolutely safeguarded, leaving aside the dueling question which stands apart."

"The Anglophone journals here grossly insult the Khedive for having received me.
We leave at once. I will accept no challenge at Marseilles on landing. We go straight to Paris."

HUNTSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 6.—It is reported that warrants have been issued for known men, on the charge of murdering

SEVEN LIVING WIVES.

David Ellsworth Bates Eclipses
All Matrimonial Records,
Even in Chicago.

IS LITTLE, LEAN AND SALLOW.

Names of the Women Whom He Has Wooed, Won and Deserted.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Another warrant charging bigamy has been served on David Ellsworth Bates in his cell at the police station. It was sworn out by James I.
McCarthy, who said he was the father of Mrs. Bates No. 2. The police say Bates married at least seven women, all of whom are living, and only one of them divorced.
This makes the lean and saw-toothed little bookkeeper a polygamist extraordinary.

The following women have so far fled with the police their claims to Bates as husband:
Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Julia Mc-Carthy, married in Chicago three years ago; recognized by the prisoner as his true wife and dwelling at 840 West Sixty-first street.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Nettie Swalm; married Feb. 25, 1897, in Chicago and residing at 6402 Bishop street.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Anna E. Har-bert, Plainfield, Mich., a sister of his brother's wife; married Sept. 11, 1893, and now in Michigan.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Nellie Howard of Kalamazoo, Mich.; married in 1885 and divorced two years later.

Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Ida Calderwood of Galena, Ill., who dwelt at 5401 Dearborn street, where she gave birth to a baby, her home is not now known to the police.

Mrs. Bates, whose identity is a mystery, but known to have dwelt at Forty-third and Wallace streets, where a child was born.

A Wisconsin sheriff believes that Bates is really Austin O. Croven, who is under indictment at Waupaca, Wis., for the abduction of pretty 15-year-old Olive Vos-berg, some months ago. Her photograph was found in his coat. It is suggested by the police that this girl may have been one of his wives.

Bates is fair-haired and wears a blue serge suit and a matching cap. He has been employed as a clerk in the receiving department at the Union Stock yards, and is considered a leader among the young society people in Englewood.

For some time, in this city, according to the complaint against him, Bates has maintained two separate households, within close proximity to each other, and to avoid detection by relatives also went under the name of Gates. His meals and time, it is said, are evenly divided between the two establishments.

Merchants in the vicinity of the Stock yards know the young man under both names, although they never were aware of the double life he is alleged to have been leading.

Man Who Was Getting Them Up
Has Been Arrested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 6.—Charles Brown of New York City was taken into custody to-day by Marshal Munson on receipt of a telegram from the Chief of Police at Buffalo, N. Y. Brown arrived in the city Monday and claimed to be a promoter of bicycle races and arranged to have a meet here on the 18th of August. He got into the good graces of the merchants and induced them to offer prizes, he to receive 25 percent of the gate receipts. The telegram received to-day from Buffalo states that he stole a bicycle from the Elson manufacturing Co. and that he is wanted in Buffalo for grand larceny. He brought a wheel with him to Hannibal, which is now in the possession of the officers. The meet that he had arranged to hold here has been declared off.

AT PEACE WITH THE NATIONS

Queen Victoria Reviews the Relations of Great Britain With Other Powers.

THE TURCO-GRECIAN TROUBLES

All Important Matters in Controversy in a Fair Way of Settlement.

TREATY WITH KING MENELIK.

The British Ruler's Address Proroguing the Session Read to the Members of Parliament.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The House of Commons met today at 10 o'clock in the morning and passed to the third reading of the appropriation bill, which was then forwarded to the House of Lords, where it passed all stages. Both houses then suspended business until 2:30 p. m., when the Queen's speech, proroguing Parliament, was read. It was as follows:

My Lords and Gentlemen.—At the close of the session during which there has been disturbance and conflict in Europe, I am glad to be able to inform you that the cordiality of my relations with foreign powers remains unchanged. The united influence of the six powers signatory of the treaty of Paris was earnestly exerted early in the year to dissuade the King of Greece from a war upon which he unhappily desired to enter. Though they failed in this endeavor, they were able to bring about an early suspension of hostilities between the two belligerents and open negotiations for peace. These proceedings have resulted in a formal treaty has not yet been signed, but there is good ground for believing that the most important matters in controversy have been adjusted and that in return for an adequate indemnity the territory conquered by Turkey with a slight modification of the frontier will be restored to Greece. I have given the treaty to the British and German Emperors to terminate the treaties of 1832 and 1835, whereby I am prevented from making with any colonies such fiscal arrangements within my empire as seem to me expedient.

In consequence of the infraction by the Chinese Government of certain stipulations of the convention of 1894, a special convention has been concluded, establishing the frontier of Burma and China, more advantageously to my empire and opening the West River of China to European commerce. I have concluded a treaty of commerce and friendship with King Menelik. The presence of representatives of the colonies and India at the ceremonies of the celebration of the sixtieth year of my reign has contributed to the strength of the bond of union in all parts of my empire and the contribution that Cape Colony, following the example of Australia, has offered for my naval defense. The famine, which to my profound grief, has prevailed in large portions of my Indian dominions since the close of last year, has taxed severely the resources of that country. I gladly acknowledge the energy and self-sacrifice of my officers of all ranks, both European and natives, and of the many private persons who have labored to relieve suffering. An appeal to the sympathies of my subjects in all parts of my empire has responded to in the most generous manner, and I rejoice to learn that owing to the satisfactory rainfall there is every prospect that the distress of distress will be very greatly diminished.

REPAID IN KIND.

Mamie White, a Panel Worker, Robbed by Her Associates.

Mamie White, a notorious panel worker and "crawler," was treated to a dose of her own bitter medicine Thursday night. She has a room at No. 8 North Third street. Thursday night when she retired she had $20 in a small iron safe in her wardrobe, the key of which she placed under her pillow.

During the night somebody entered her room, forced open the wardrobe, took the safe out, pried it open and stole the money. The white woman reported the robbery to the police and said she suspected Frank Carson.

Jim Woods, her porter, said he had seen Carson climb over the porch back of the woman's house during the night. Carson, a hanger-on about the Grand saloon at Sixth and Pine streets.

INDIGNANT WOMEN

Visit Commissioner Milner to Protest Against Bad Sprinkling.

The Street Department is going to have a lawsuit on its hands if it does not sprinkle Taylor avenue, between Finney and Easton avenues.

Property owners out there declare they will not pay another cent of street sprinkling tax unless the department can at least for their money.

Several ladies from that neighborhood asked the Street Commissioner Friday and read the riot act to him for permitting the street to become ankle deep in dust. They refused to give their names, but said when the tax bills came around they would sue to it that they were not paid unless their street was properly sprinkled.

RUN DOWN BY A BARK WHEEL

Distressing and Perhaps Fatal Accident to a Boy on Cozzens Avenue That a Bicycle Lamp Would Have Prevented.

Another Victim of a Collision, Taken to the City Hospital Suffering From Curvature of the Spine, Will Die.

The bicycle without a light has scored again.

Another victim was added to the long list Thursday night.

George Tresson, a lad of 8 years, lies groaning from pain at the home of his parents, 3732 Cozzens avenue.

His injuries may prove fatal, he may be crippled for life; at the least he will not be out of bed for a fortnight.

He was crossing Cozzens avenue at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, when, with a rush, a bicycle struck him on the side, and he was thrown violently on the ground.

Tenny Tark, living at 2712 Cozzens avenue, was the scorcher. He was riding down the boulevard at breakneck speed. The inflated tires gave forth no sound, there was no warning bell and worse than all no light to signal approaching danger.

The Tresson boy had been sent across the street on an errand.

He was half way to the curb on the other side when he was knocked senseless. That is all he knows. He heard no sound, saw nothing that threatened him.

At the moment a light-hearted lad, running across just before bedtime; the next, an appearance, a corpse, bleeding profusely from a wound in the head, unconscious as he lay on the ground.

A light on the Tark boy's bicycle would have saved him. An ordinance such as the Post-Dispatch urges would have prevented the accident.

It was some time after the accident before little George recovered consciousness.

Dr. Johnson, 224 East Avenue, attended him and said at the least it would be a fortnight before he could leave his bed.

The bicycle was not arrested and made no excuse for his reckless riding without a lamp.

At the City Hospital Thursday night the danger from bicycles without lamps was again brought to the attention of the public.

William P. Hanks' release from jail that he might visit his wife and child, the father took the little invalid to the hospital and asked if there was any hope for him.

The examination showed curvature of the spine caused by a bicycle collision.

Sutter spoke as cheerily as he could, but when Mr. Hanks had driven away, his lips were set in a grimace.

"The little fellow has but a month or two to live," he said.

Since the attention has been called to the great danger of riding bicycles at night without lights many riders are heeding the warning.

In the long strings of wheels pouring into the entrances of Forest Park Thursday night, lights danced and sparkled in front of many of them, but the proportion of lights to wheels was woefully small.

The number of lights is increasing, however. More were carried Thursday than on Wednesday. A week ago on hundreds of bicycles out at night lights were carried not more than half a dozen.

One reason for the increase in the number of lights is that girls and wheelmen are being killed and maimed by collisions.

Wheeling accidents have alarmed the mothers of bicycle-riding daughters and when the lights are on, the girls are made to wear them.

Night riding without lights is especially dangerous for women. They ride well enough and know how to handle their machines, but their wheels under ordinary circumstances. But not in a pinch.

The same is true of the ordinary girl bicyclist. Her head, then she loses control of her wheel. It is a curious but a fact.

There was a serious accident Thursday afternoon on the big new dredge boat being listed for the Government opposite Carondelet.

The monster "diggers" were cutting away a sandbar at full speed when a log was struck.

The obstruction was drawn into the shaft of the "digger" as it had been a piece of paper. There it got tangled up in the machinery and literally tore the expensive outfit to pieces.

The shaft was destroyed and the teeth of the big digger twisted and bent out of all semblance to their former shape.

The sudden stop jarred the machinery all over the boat.

Officers of the boat say it will take two weeks to get it in running order again and an expenditure of $3,000 will be required to do so.

The accident may be a serious blow to the New York Dredge Company, which built the dredge and was under contract to keep the machinery running thirty days.

Three days later the dredge was taken to the Government wharf and a letter of complaint was filed with the city.

As it is a heavy forfeit will probably be demanded from the company.

SNATCHED HER POCKETBOOK.

Two Young Thieves Rob Miss Lawrence on Tenth Street.

While Miss Clara Lawrence of 1020 Vandeventer avenue was walking along Tenth street, between Franklin avenue and Morgan street, at 8 o'clock Thursday night, two boys, each about 16 years old, suddenly darted out of the mouth of the alley and snatched her purse out of her hand.

The young thieves were seen by Miss Lawrence could recover from her astonishment. There was $1 and two tiny pictures of Miss Lawrence in the purse.

The victim hunted up the two patrolmen on the block and reported the theft to them. No arrests have been made.

FOR A NEW BRIDGE.

The One Washed Away in Forest Park to Be Rebuilt.

The Board of Public Improvements held a session Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock to receive bids for the Franklin Bridge over the river Des Peres in Forest Park, which was washed away during the freshet last March. The bridge is to cost $250,000.

well known fact that wobbling bicycles always go straight for the place they shouldn't go. In the rider's desire to keep away from danger he eagerly puts her straight at it. A wobbling wheel never fails to strike the other.

There is a collision and the weaker rider, the woman, comes out second best and generally is the one who gets hurt.

Mothers of bicycling girls are always uneasy when their daughters are out at night for they know the danger of collisions on the crowded avenues and roads in the parks. They are now warning their girls that night riding without lights increases greatly the dangers and that carrying lights minimizes the danger.

At the Lindell entrance to Forest Park Thursday night several thousand bicyclists rode in for a spin around the winding cool roads of the park. Here and there a single light gleamed and looked lonely in comparison with the great number of dark wheels.

Every now and then a gay party of young men and girls would ride into the park, in most cases lights were on their wheels, and the danger of collisions was avoided.

The lights were on the wheels of the riders who were riding in the park. The lights were on the wheels of the riders who were riding in the park.

LITTLE GIRLS SAVED BY FENDERS.

Baby Best Was on the Car Five-Year-Old Mamie Myerson Tracks and the Motorman Couldn't Stop. Ran Away From Her Mamma's Kitchen.

FENDER SCOOPED HER UP. WAS PLAYING HIDE-AND-SEEK. Agonized Mother Witnessed Her Darling's Peril, but Was Unable to Save Her.

Motorman Dropped His Fender and She Tumbled Into It Unharm.

To the dexterity of Motorman Frank Hartwig of Bellefontaine car 504 is due the happiness that exists to-day in the home of John Best at 1737 North Tenth street.

An instant's delay Thursday evening and the motorman would have ground beneath the wheels of his car the light of that pretty home and the favorite of the neighborhood.

The cool evening breeze appeared to Mrs. Best and she decided to give her baby the outdoor romp it so badly needed.

In the route, but it warns of danger, allowing Viola to run ahead, flying her toy balloon. In this manner she got farther away from protection than the mother intended.

At Tenth and Mound streets, the car ran out on the flagstones, looking back laughing at Mrs. Best's frantic efforts to overtake her.

Some one suggested hide-and-seek and Mamie was declared "it." She buried her face in the little, dirty hands, repeated the required rhyme, then started to search for the hiders. This carried her across the street, and she was found crouching in an alley way.

With a shriek of delight Mamie started back to the "base" as fast as her stout little legs would carry her. In her excitement she forgot to look for the approach of North Central car 115.

Motorman William Kahlof could not check his car. He dropped his fender and she tumbled into it.

The cries of the children raised the neighbors and crowds flocked to the scene, expecting a horrible tragedy. A physician was called and the child was found unhurt.

Like a flash the fender was dropped and the little one rolled on its iron protection. The mother was so close that she saw the child, half a block away, leave the pavement and go toward the track.

IGNORING MISSOURI'S MINERALS.

Statistician Mulhall has contributed an article to the North American Review for August on the "Progress of the United States," in which he deals especially with the Prairie States, including Missouri. Under the head of Mining he calls attention to some of the chief mining products of these States, but ignores Missouri as a mining State, merely citing Illinois and Ohio coal, Michigan iron and Dakota gold and silver.

Unwittingly, perhaps, Mr. Mulhall has done Missouri an injustice. Missouri is one of the greatest mining States in the Prairie group. In fact, it has mines and mining possibilities second to none of these States.

The mineral wealth of Missouri is valued at $16,000,000, in round numbers. Coal is mined in fourteen counties of the State, which produce nearly 3,000,000 tons annually. Iron is found in nine counties, which produce over a quarter of a million tons. Lead is mined to a large extent in several counties.

But it is its wealth of zinc that places Missouri in the front rank as a mining State. In this product Missouri leads the world, and it is very strange that a statistician like Mulhall should either not know or should ignore that fact.

Four counties of Missouri produced last year over 74,000 tons of zinc ore, which is practically the entire production of the United States. The total zinc product for 1894, according to the Post-Dispatch Almanac, being 74,004 tons.

In any further use of figures relating to the output of the Prairie States, Mr. Mulhall must include these facts, if he does not want to forfeit his reputation for accuracy.

ST. LOUIS IS LONG ON STREETS AND OFFICIAL SALARIES AND SHORT ON FUNDS.

MCENERY'S PITIFUL PLEA.

Senator McEnery's defense before the Louisiana constituency of his vote for the Dingley tariff bill was a pitiful surrender of the fundamental principle of just government, supported by the Democratic party from the beginning.

In substance, the Senator's plea was that he voted for the tariff bill because it favored a special interest of his State.

In short, he threw aside the interest of the mass of the Louisiana people in order to secure a bounty for the sugar planters.

The best that Senator McEnery could say for the Sugar Trust's differential was that the fostering of that monster combine would probably help the sugar planters.

Everything thrown aside to obtain government aid for one interest in the State. Governmental power abused for the benefit of oppressive trusts and all the people delivered into the hands of bootlickers in order that a few petted Louisianians may share in the spoil.

Out of his own mouth Senator McEnery stands condemned as false to the principles he professes, and to his constituency.

SO LONG AS THE CYCLERS HAVE NO FENDERS TO BUY, THEY SHOULD SEE THEIR WAY TO A BELL AND A LIGHT.

MUNICIPAL WASTE.

Julius Wurzbarger, the new Assistant Street Commissioner, says that, although only one-third of the fiscal year has passed, two-thirds of the appropriation for street work are gone. He estimates the balance of the appropriation at $25,000.

One of two conclusions is inevitable from this statement. Either the appropriation is far too small for the needs of the department or the money has been improperly expended.

It should be an easy matter to determine which of these conclusions is correct. But whether or not there has been waste in the expenditure of this appropriation, there can be little doubt that it was not sufficient. For years the standing excuse for failure to keep the streets clean and in repair and to do necessary work of improvement has been the plea of poverty.

St. Louis is a great, rich city. The tax assessment is high. The sources of revenue are many. Yet public work is constantly dragging on the plea that the City Treasury is empty. The people pay heavy taxes, yet must put up with unmade or worn out streets and with filthy streets and alleys. The public institutions are wretchedly inadequate.

Under these conditions no argument is required to demonstrate that the municipal household is mismanaged. The assets of the city in the form of franchises are given away; money is wasted on barnacles and political pensioners and on public jobs. The people suffer.

Such conditions would not be tolerated in a private business. Why should they be tolerated in public business?

Tragedy often hides the face of laughter and comedy invades the funeral train. Men die of joy and a supreme success may mean the crowning failure of a life. Science has devised an instrument which measures the depths of despair and the heights of joy. Experiments show that the transition is sudden and all the tremulous movements are shown in illustrations, which will accompany an article describing experiments conducted for the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

THE END NOT YET.

Quoting several utterances of the Post-Dispatch on the subject of the Book Trusts and the State book contracts the Chilliote Daily Constitution severely criticizes the award of the contracts to the Trusts.

In the case of one award—Milne's arithmetic—the Constitution claims that the Commission rejected a better and cheaper book, the acceptance of which would have rendered unnecessary the purchase of two other supplementary books.

It is impossible to get at the merits of the awards except by a careful expert analysis and comparison of the accepted books and bids and the rejected books and bids. The members of the Commission say they were forced by the conditions to award the bulk of the contracts to the Book Trusts. They say that there was no alternative.

By the remark of the Constitution that the situation is remarkable is justified. For years Missouri has had an anti-trust law in the statute books. At the demand of the people this law was amended and strengthened by the existing Legislature. An overwhelming majority of the Missouri people are opposed to trusts and combines and believe they should be legislated out of existence.

Yet the extraordinary spectacle of a Missouri commission signing for a State a contract with Book Trusts for the people's supply of school books is now presented. Within five years, the period of the contracts, the people of Missouri will strengthen and enrich great School Book Trusts by paying into their coffers, practically on their own terms, nearly $3,000,000.

But there is another remarkable feature of the transaction. When the law creating the commission was passed it was charged that the Book Trusts were back of the bill. The Post-Dispatch commented on the fact at the time and also on the extraordinary fact that contrary to custom four of the Commissioners were named in the bill creating the Commission.

There may be no truth in the charge that the Book Trusts were back of the law and chose the Commission. There may be no truth in the current charges that Trust influences controlled the awarding of the contracts. But the fact stands that the Trusts reaped the benefits of the law and of the awards. They got what they wanted. Missouri's public school system has been bound to the chariot wheels of triumphant Book Trusts.

The school book contracts cannot be dropped at this point. The end is not yet.

"I did not know what the local regulations about carrying guns were, but I wouldn't go to a strange hotel without my revolver. I did not want to run the risk of arrest for carrying concealed weapons, so I just walked up the village street carrying my revolver in my hand. Everybody got out of my way, but no one offered to molest me." In this naive fashion a very modern girl describes a 5300 mile tour of her journey a wheel over 5300 miles to St. Louis. No paragraph in her fascinating story of adventure, which will be printed in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch, indicates so clearly the spirit of the newest woman, the courage of the girl who never was before to-day. Not even a mouse could daunt her.

Japan's young civilization would show itself green indeed by forming a Spanish alliance against the United States. It is scarcely credible that the Japanese would expect much help from a power that has shown so little capacity for war or for progress. They would need a great deal of aid in any conflict with us.

There may be design in Senator Quay's visit to Hawaii. There are many "floaters" in the Hawaiian population and it would be a good thing to prepare for the future. The Senator may intend to organize the "floaters" in blocks of five for the next campaign.

Six Treasury employees have just narrowly escaped from being buried in coin. There are many who would regard such a taking off as a beautiful death.

The population of the United States is now 77,000,000. The sixty-eight are probably the plutocrats who are preying on the other 77,000,000.

Free trade with Hawaii would come for all time with annexation. How can any sincere high tariff favor annexation?

When insurgent fires are visible from Havana it ought to be time for Weyler to embark for home.

Carl Trede found himself treed by Fate and took a switch into eternity.

"Brewers abandon the fight," says a newspaper headline. But those who drink their product don't.

A Bulgarian poet has just been assassinated, yet some foolish persons will persist in writing rhymes.

While the humane citizen is having his dog-bite cauterized his feelings are not quite so bitter against the dog-biter.

Mr. Filley calls himself a something of a growler when things are not all coming his way.

The Klondike sunrise at 10 a. m. would agree with many of us. There may be a rush of sluggards as well as of hustlers to the gold regions.

The bride of young George Gooden of Norton County, Kansas, deserted him after two days. Again the saying that there's nothing in a name is vindicated.

According to a Post-Dispatch London special, machinery is to supplant scrub-women. For many years in this country machines have run the public offices.

MEN OF MARK.

No publisher would take Hagar's first book, and he had to pay for the production of it himself.

James Tobin, an Indiana man, is reported to have not only supported life on ice-cream since July 14, 1892, but to have increased from 140 to 210 pounds in weight.

Goethe once presented a set of his works to Harvard University—a fact brought to light some years ago in the process of re-cataloguing the German literature of the library.

King Oscar of Sweden and Norway, who will soon celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his reign, has received the honorary degree of doctor in all the faculties of the University of Vienna.

Prince Louis Napoleon, colonel of the Lancers Regiment of the Imperial Russian Guard, at St. Petersburg, has asked the Czar for leave of absence at the end of August, in order that he may not have to witness President Faure's visit to the Russian capital. The request has been granted.

Slenkiewicz, the Polish novelist, has gone to Paris to consult a specialist about his throat. He is at work on a historical novel turning on the great defeat of the Teutonic knights on the Tannenberg, in 1410, by the Poles and Lithuanians under Wladislaw Jagello.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

The marriage of Miss Fanny Hayes, the only daughter of the late President Hayes, to Ensign Harry Smith, U. S. A., is to take place on Sept. 1 at the Hayes home, Spiegel Grove, Fremont.

In her early days Queen Victoria was a diligent sketcher, her mother, the Duchess of Kent, being her tutor. A collection of her drawings, dated 1823, each bearing her autograph, will soon be offered for sale.

Princess Louise of England has a new fad. She has caused her to be opened in London a hospital devoted to the treatment of sores and wounds by oxygen. The system is based on the curative properties of pure air.

Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer, an American, was recently elected president of the National School for Girls at San Sebastian, Spain. The school was established by Bostonians five years ago to co-operate with the American Board of Missions.

Sarah Bernhardt has instituted criminal proceedings for libel against La Presse and Le Figaro. She has caused the arrest of the two papers, for having said that she retained 33 per cent of the receipts at a performance given in aid of the fund for the erection of a monument to Alexander Dumas.

Mrs. Mary Ann Cassidy of Coalport, Pa., is now 100 years of age, hale and hearty. She was the mother of eighteen children, thirteen boys and five girls. Of this number nine are living and nine dead. Mrs. Cassidy was never known to be sick and never had a physician. She never went to a dance in her life. For the past twenty-four years she has had her "second sight," and now does not need to wear glasses.

OUR LARGE EXPORTS.

From the New York World.
Our manufacturing exports for the year 1897 (ending June 30) were $76,347,000, or 26.78 per cent of the total. This is not only the largest total export of manufactured goods reported, but it is the largest percentage of the gross total. In 1892 the exports of manufactured goods were only 16.61 per cent of the total. The phenomenal increase was undoubtedly due to the effect of a lower tariff in encouraging American manufacturers to seek a foreign market.

INFLAMMATORY IRONY.

From the Chicago Chronicle.
The destruction by fire of a "fireproof" plant reminds one of the incongruity of the burning of a building in Chicago a few years ago in which 80,000 charged fire extinguishers were stored.

THE FEMINE FLUENCY.

O whence comes woman's wondrous flow of words?
Her non-conception of the flight of time? What set her going? O ye little birds, In the far past the great globe's distant prime? THE CYNIC.

THE GOLD THAT GREW BY SHASTA TOWN.

BY JOAQUIN MILLER.

From Shasta town to Redding town
The ground is torn by miners, dead;
The manzanita, rank and red,
Drops dusty berries up and down.
Their grass-grown trails, their silent mines
Are wrapped in chaparral and vines;
Yet one gray miner still sits down
'Twixt Redding and sweet Shasta town.

The quail pipes pleasantly. The hare Leaps careless o'er the golden oat
That grows below the water moat;
The lizard basks in sunlight there;
The brown hawk swims the perfumed air.

Unfrightened through the livelong day
And now and then a curious bear
Comes shuffling down the ditch by night
And leaves some wide, long tracks in clay.

So human-like, so stealthy light,
Where one lone cabin still stoops down
'Twixt Redding and sweet Shasta town.
That great graveyard of hopes! Of men
Who sought for hidden veins of gold.

Of young men suddenly grown old—
Of old men dead, despairing when
The gold was just within their hold.
That storied land, whereon the light
Of other days gleams faintly still,
Just like the halo of a hill
That lifts above the falling night!

That warm, red, rich and human land,
That fresh-red soil, that warm red sand,
Where one gray miner still sits down
'Twixt Redding and sweet Shasta town.

"I know the vein is here," he said;
For twenty years, for thirty years!
While far away fell tears on tears
From wife and babe who mourned him dead.

No gold! No gold! And he grew old
And crept to toll with bended head,
Amid a graveyard of his dead,
Still seeking for that vein of gold.

Then lo! came laughing down the years
A sweet grandchild! Between his tears
He laughed. He set her by the door,
The while he toiled his day's toil o'er.

He held her chubby cheeks between His hard palms, laughed; and, laughing, cried:
You should have seen, have heard and seen.

His boyish joy, his stout old pride,
When toll was done and he sat down
At night, below sweet Shasta town!
At last his strength was gone. "No more!"

I mine no more. I plant me now
~~~~~

A vine and fig tree; worn and old
I seek no more my vein of gold.
But, oh, I sigh to give it o'er,
These thirty years of toil! Somehow
It seems so hard; but now no more!
And so the old man sat him down
To plant, by pleasant Shasta town.
And it was pleasant, piped the quail
The full year through. The chipmunk stole
His whiskered nose and tawny tail
Full buried in the sugar-bowl.

And purple grapes and grapes of gold Swung sweet as milk. White orange trees
Grew brown with laden honey bees.
Oh! it was pleasant up and down
That vine-set hill of Shasta town.

And then that cloudburst came! Ah, me!
That torn down there! The mellow land,
Not torn down there! The mellow land,
Nor left on leafy vine or tree.
Of all that Eden nestling down
Below that moat by Shasta town!

The old man sat his cabin sill,
His gray beard bowed upon his knee.
The child went forth, sang pleasantly,
Whereabout the ditch the day before.
And picked some pebbles from the hill.
The old man moaned, moaned o'er and o'er.

"My babe is downless, and I Must fold my helpless hands and die!
Ah, me! What curse comes ever down
On me and mine at Shasta town!"

"Good grandpa, see!" the glad child said
Yea, child, my grandpa, see! his side—
Laid her gold head to his gray head,
And, merry-voiced and cheery, cried:
"Good grandpa, do not weep, but see!
I've found a peck of orange seeds!"

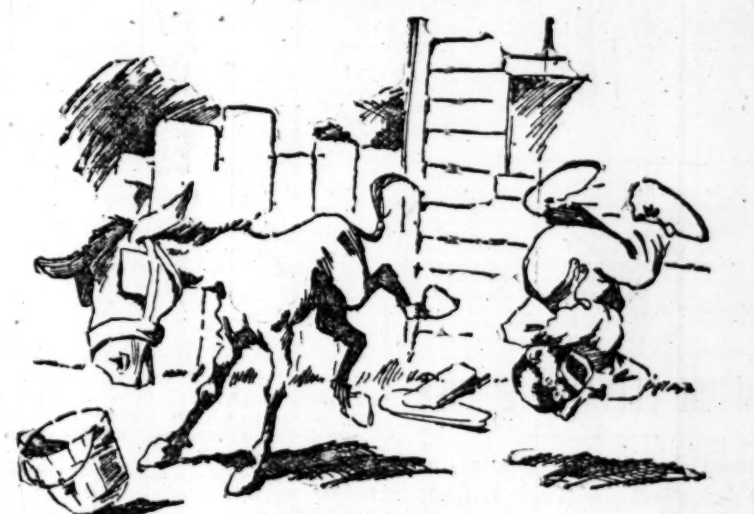

Nor left one leafy vine or tree!
And so he laid her down on weeds;
But, oh! such heaps of orange seeds!
Come, good grandpa! Now, once you said.

That God is good. So this may teach
That we must plant each seed, and each
May grow to be an orange tree.
Now, good grandpa, please raise your head,
And please come and plant the seeds
with me."

And prattling thus, or like to this,
The child thrust her full hand in his.
He sprang—sprang upright as of old.
"Tis gold! 'Tis gold! My hidden vein!"
"Tis gold! my gold, sweet babe, 'tis gold!"
Yea, child, my gold, we plant again!
So one old miner still sits down
By pleasant, sunlit Shasta town.

A PRIMEVAL SILHOUETTE.

Adam was digging with a bent root in the corner of the garden.
Not the original garden.
"What are you doing, Adam?" inquired Eve. She had Enoch on her arm and the child gazed about him with open-mouthed wonder.
"Digging," said Adam.
The shadows of the blossoms on the awaying trees flaked the ground with changing light and shade.
"For what?" inquired the mother of mankind.
"Worms," said Adam.
And he threw a scarlet wriggler at her feet.
"Adam," said Eve, harshly, "you're digging up them little snakes just to humiliate me."
"No, I ain't," said Adam. "I'm goin' a fishin'."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What Say the Breadwinners?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
So much is heard now from our various political prophets and others about the "wave of prosperity" that is booming down upon us that one is almost tempted to believe in it. Still I would rather hear a little "winning" with the word of adversity for the past few years before I swallow these statements. For my own part, I voted for McKinley and the gold standard, with the result that two months afterwards my salary was cut nearly 40 per cent, resulting in the foreclosure of a deed of trust on my little home necessitating my having babies & going if anything happened to the breadwinner. Let us hear more from the young that testify to this prosperity bustle. Their testimony is of much greater value than that of political parrots.
Yours truly,
FULL PRIVATE.

Is It "Mawkish Sentimentality?"

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The mawkish sentimentality of some men regarding Dr. Norris makes me sick. When a man becomes so disabled all his life and becomes so disabled he makes a show of "sentimentality" and calls on the church to cover his bestiality. The church is no place for such a creature. Of what good is Dr. Norris' so-called repentance? Can it restore virtue, peace and happiness to the home he has wrecked? If his repentance is good for the sinner, what recompense shall the sinnered against have?
The crime of the seducer is beyond pardon, and the man or woman who would "take him by the hand" in church or out of it, ought to be despised and ignored.

Thefts at the Library.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Tuesday afternoon I had the misfortune to lose a book from the Public Library. It was taken by an unknown clerk just as I had stepped to the issue desk to get my book. When I inquired of the assistant as to his whereabouts in case I was left there, he knew nothing—not even enough to answer me politely. As I descended on the elevator I asked the young man on duty about it, and he said: "Oh, that is nothing; there is something missing here every day."
The public library should take action to prevent these thefts.
A VICTIM.

Uncle Tom's Writings.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
"He was a cab-driver and thought himself a great writer."
The above sentence from this morning's Republic refers to the late Louis Klein, familiarly known as "Uncle Tom," and was read by a disgusted Republic subscriber. Cab-driver, forsooth! The Republic's young man has forgotten that Burns died a beggar and Bunyan was a tinker. He had better review his English literature and refresh his memory with the annals of Great Britain, or get nearer home and find one of the founders of our literature crossing his legs on a tailor's board.
"Uncle Tom," though poor and obscure, wrote excellent English. He had a distinctive style and was a man of original ideas. Many of his articles were read and discussed by intelligent people and he contributed much to the entertainment of the reading public.

A PENETRATING TRUST.

The Whisky Combine Gets a Concession From Venezuela.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Republic of Venezuela has granted a concession, giving a substantial monopoly for the establishment of the distilling industry in the Republic, which was obtained in the interest of the American Spirits Manufacturing Co. Representatives of that company have paid a number of visits to Caracas in the last twelve months and the company, since the granting of the concession, has sent one of its practical men to supervise the erection of a plant, all the parts of which have been assembled in that city ready for shipment.
Venezuelan statistics show an annual consumption by that country of 60,000 gallons of spirits and alcoholic beverages distributed among population of about 2,000,000. The import duty is practically prohibitory, amounting to 50 cents a pound, equivalent to $250 a gallon. The concession, which is for six years, gives the right to bring in all the necessary plant and raw material free. It was said to-day that the American Spirits Co. is conducting similar negotiations elsewhere, which, if expectations are only partly realized, will result in a very extensive extension of the business of the company.

OIL ON THE TROUBLED DUST.

Crude Petroleum Used on the Pennsylvania Railway.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A dispatch to the Herald from May's Landing, N. J., says: The recent discovery of Chief Engineer J. H. Nichols of the West Jersey & Seashore Railway that crude oil applied to the ground along railroad tracks would effectively lay the dust, has proven after thorough tests to work far better than was first expected. Roadways of track leading from Camden to Atlantic City are being thoroughly saturated for a distance of six feet on both sides of the tracks.
The oil is applied on much the same plan as streets are sprinkled with water, and recently an oil train with a sprinkling apparatus sprinkled more than twenty miles of track. The oil will be used for a few days. One sprinkling a year, at a cost of $50 per mile, it is claimed, will lay the dust, effectively, but two applications a year have to be made. The entire Pennsylvania system, it is said, is to be sprinkled with oil as speedily as possible.

He was lying on the floor for some time before he was discovered. He was struck in the head, inflicting a scalp wound, the bullet passing through the skull and one through the head of his bed. He is not dangerously hurt.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN THERE.

Also Pianos and Russian Batis, Doctors and Lawyers, and Churches Are Coming.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Just think of it! Paintings and pianos and school children in the Klondike. Such there are, strange as it may sound to those who have looked upon Alaska and its neighboring fields as a desolate wilderness.

Joseph Ladue, who told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday how he founded Dawson City, was prevailed upon to talk some more to-day. Almost every sentence uttered from him came as hard as d-d of the gold nuggets he found in the frozen beds of the Yukon and Klondike rivers, after ten years of hard luck and physical suffering.

He told the most graphic story of life in the gold fields yet heard. It touched upon the intensely interesting experiences of women who have dashed into the frozen North.

"There are women there who own property. Susie Lamar is one. She is a single woman, who came from Germany. She has been cooking for me and my partner. I pay her $10 a month right along. She has not found any gold herself. She is perhaps 30 years old.

"Lottie Barnes also owns property there. She came over the divide two years ago. She was formerly in Circle City. She conducted a place there.

"There is a Mrs. Yeager there, who formerly conducted a boarding-house at Circle City. She had two or three young ladies who boarded with her. She was there with her husband, who was a packer at Dawson.

"There is also a Mrs. W. who has quite a history. She went in with my party two years ago. She pulled her own sled, weighing 20 pounds, and carried a quarter skin through to Lake Lebarge, about 70 miles. She went first to Circle City, where she started a laundry and bake shop. She got 50 cents a loaf for bread—pound loaves made from wheat.

"There were pianos there. The pianos and organs were principally in the dance houses and theaters at Circle City.

"Before the establishment of Dawson there were 1,500 people at Circle City. After that it was pretty hard to tell how many there were. It was practically deserted in a short time. We have all kinds of pictures in Dawson City—oil, water colors, etc. The saloon people have them mostly.

"We have nicer bars there than you have here. The day I left Dawson my impression of the town was that it would become a great big place. When I came away there were probably close on to 3,000 people there. I think perhaps of these 75 were women. A good many of the women were wives of the men who came, forty or fifty. Some of the others were in the dance hall. The dance hall was owned by Harry and Mary. They had an orchestra at the dance hall. I should think there were a horn, piano, violin, etc. There may be fifteen or twenty women there. There is no admission fee. You just go in and dance and patronize the establishment. Everything is 50 cents a drink. They don't keep champagne in the saloons and dance halls—only at the trading posts. The women get a percentage of the receipts for dancing with the miners. Frequently when the miners feel flush they give the women nuggets.

"When I left Dawson there were ten saloons and only three restaurants. They charge $1.50 for a meal, which consists of bacon, beans, bread, coffee, a piece of cheese and dried fruit. They sold everything they could take or send.

"The trouble was they could not get enough supplies to satisfy the demand for meals. Bacon was a dollar a pound, eggs as high as $5 a dozen in the winter. Flour is $12 a hundred pounds, sugar 20 cents a pound, rice 20 cents a pound, oatmeal 20 cents, condensed milk 10 cents a can, butter is $1.50 a roll, beans 15 cents, salt is 15 cents, dried fruit 25 to 30 cents, apricots are 35 cents a pound, tobacco sells for $1.50 a pound—chewing and fancy brands for smoking; plug cut is $2 a pound.

cigars wholesale there for $20 to $25 per 1,000; a single cigar is 50 cents. It would sell there for 5 cents.

"Blankets run all the way—for a good blanket which a white man would use—from $15 to $20 a pair. Hudson Bay blankets sell for $30, which you would get for about $15 in England. A good linen shirt will cost you $5, a suit of underwear about $10, canvas overalls from $2 to $2.50, boots from $1 to $2. The common story shoes are worth $2 to $2.50, which would cost about $1 here.

"A suit of clothes brings $10 to $20. There are no tailors there yet. These clothes are custom-made winter clothes, the same as they keep in the States. They are largely remnants of clothing dealers' stock.

"For winter wear, the overcoats, if you wear any, are the parkies, which are made out of the Siberian deer skins and have white spots on them. There is no cloth used in their manufacture. The fur side shows. The parkies have a hood with a fringe of wolfed fur around the face. They extend down to the knees. They are put on over the head like a shirt and are very warm and comfortable. The cost of one is anywhere from $20 to $40.

"The dress of the people there in the summer is just what it is here. There are lots of children up there now. An immense number of children came in this spring. There is a school at Circle City and one is being built in Dawson this year. The teacher in the school at Circle City is a woman named Mrs. A. She is a native of Boston and the furthest city north—was an American in Nebraska. She got probably $15 a month.

"There were no churches in Dawson up to the time the first church was built. The first church built this summer. There will probably be also an English church and a Russian church. The Russian church is now under way. The English church is a repertory house. They will have a theater in Dawson this winter.

"We have a graveyard started and two graves in it. One is that of Dr. Bickner, who died a natural death on Lake Lebarge, and the other is that of C. G. Felch, who died of heart disease in the room over my office. We had service over these men conducted by Church and English ministers.

"Bishop Humphreys is the head of the Episcopal Church and this was one of the clerics who came with the Bishop to the Klondike. He will move to Dawson.

"We have Dr. Willis, a Canadian physician, who is at the Yukon Hotel. He is a single man, who came from Yakima, Wash. I think they charge according to the finger taken off and was charged $200 for the job. The doctors have complete medicine chests and there is no drug store except what Dr. Willis has. There was a lawyer's office started last week by a man named Murphy, who is my legal representative there.

"I remember saying that any bodies were born in Dawson before I left. 'Dawson is situated on the north side of the junction of the Klondike and Yukon rivers, right at the angle. The Yukon is 600 yards wide at this point. The Klondike is about the same. As I saw the city last it was about a mile and a half long. Across the Klondike river there is a little Indian village called Louise Town, which is known on the map as Klondike. The Indians are of the tribe of Gens de Fou, or Foolish People.

"The summer opens about May 15. The ice goes out. Mrs. W. who has a history, is seen anywhere. You can plant or sow grain there on May 15. I have seen potatoes and oats there from Lake Lebarge. You can raise potatoes, but they don't mature. Not enough to eat of any of these crops to support the people because there are only a few places where you can raise them.

"On the headlands of the mainland the frost strikes every month in the year. The only places where the frost does not strike are on the islands and near the coast of these. When you get back too far from the water the frost strikes there. The summer lasts from May 15 until Sept. 1. Your crops can grow during that time.

"On March 21 and on Sept. 21 we have the sun as you do here. The days lengthen and shorten here at the rate of seven minutes a day. The longest day there is June 22. On that day we have the sun for about twenty hours—a clear, warm sun. It is 30 degrees the day I left there.

"After the winter sets in on the first of September the cold comes gradually. In the months of September and October the climate is fine. The month of October there is about the same as November here, after that everything is closed up. The Yukon River usually closes between the first and the 10th of November. It is not navigable after that time until the next spring.

"The ice in the rivers freezes five and one-half feet thick, according to Mr. Ogilvy, who cut holes for measurement once a month during the winter. From that time until June 15 of the next summer the life of the men and women lead is about the same as in any mining camp.

"In the winter the nights are spent in playing cards. Among the gamblers the great favorite is whist, peder, cribbage and checkers.

"Dawson is a woman's country. Any woman who can get along in any ordinarily healthy town would be able to take care of herself there.

"As far as cleanliness goes, we have the Russian bath. The bath houses are made out of logs. There is an arch built of rock, and this arch is fired until the rock is hot; then the fire is put out and a barrel of cold water is thrown on the rock until the house is steaming hot. Then you get up on a shelf or lie on the floor and get any temperature you want. It is a good wash bath, and is all right, too, for cleaning.

"There are bath tubs in the country. They are made there out of zinc. The same as you have here. The barber shop is fitted with a Russian bath. The barber is mostly free. I had a bath-house myself. At the barber shop a bath cost $1.

Three Miners Were Frozen to Death in a Storm.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 6.—News has reached here of the death last April of Charles A. Blackstone, George Botcher and J. W. ## DUTY ON FISH.

Earnest Protest Against a Provision of the Dingley Bill.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 6.—An issue in which a number of large fish companies are said to be interested, has been raised here. A vigorous protest has been made by the A. Booth Packing Company against the quarter-cent duty on fish imposed by the Dingley bill.

Collector Willcuts of this port-to-day levied a charge of fish on one of the Booth's steamers. He takes the position that the fish levied on cannot be admitted free, as they were caught in Canadian waters by Canadian fishermen in the employ of the Booth Company.

The company, however, has filed a protest in which it states that it is an American corporation, composed of citizens of the United States. That the fish were caught in nets owned by the company, and was packed and transferred by it; that for and reason the fish should be admitted free under a provision of the Dingley bill which allows citizens of the United States to bring in fish free of duty which they catch in foreign fresh waters.

GOLD SEEKERS WARNED.

Placer Miners Have Little Chance in the Klondike.

Frank Manning, 1106 Locust street, has received a letter from his sister, Miss A. J. Manning, a teacher at Chitchat, Alaska, in which she sounds a note of warning to seekers after gold.

Placer mining in the Klondike, she writes, is not what reports have made it. Placer mining may prove profitable, but to only those who can afford to erect machinery. She adds:

"The town is crowded with men who have claims in the Klondike to sell, and the new arrivals are literally besieged with propositions to purchase, either wholly or in part, claims in that region. At every corner the tenderfoot is besieged by a crowd of mine-owners, all of whom made much money as they desire, and whose only object in selling is to get back home to pass the remainder of the day in spending their money. This is the story they all tell.

"The big strikes have all really been made in quartz mines, and were there a few good sent to other parts of the country will not exceed $2,000,000.

"The gold from that part of the country is generally from 700 to 800 fine, and some of it ran to 900 the average being worth from $15.00 to $17.00 an ounce.

FEEL PEOPLE IN LONDON.

Capt. O'Malley Says Mrs. Esher Must Keep Inside the Newberry Law.

PREPARING TO SELL LIQUOR.

Neighbors Say It Is All Right Despite Capt. O'Malley's Assertion.

OTHER DIVES ARE CLOSED.

The Only Theater Open in the Lava Beds Is Run So the Police Cannot Interfere With It.

By persistently pointing out that the law theaters and concert halls in Darkest St. Louis were systematically violating the law of the State as well as the principles of decency, the Post-Dispatch induced the police to close them.

There were half a dozen of these resorts on Fourth street, Broadway, Sixth and Seventh streets, just south of the median line on the city map. They were frequented by thieves, thugs and fools. Wine rooms, where the thieves and thugs preyed on the fools, were maintained in close proximity to the stage entrances. There were rows of private boxes with dark recesses in which men and women met. Each theater employed a corps of "chair warmers"—bedizened arena whose business it was to make the unwary visitor spend as much as they could, then turn him over to the "strong arm" contingent, who would rob him forcibly of what he had left.

There was plenty of law to suppress these places, but the police suffered them to flourish without protest.

It was never shown by direct evidence that any policeman was bribed, in fact no such charge was made, but it was patent to everybody that members of the force knew the law was being violated. It was also clear that they did not wink at this species of law-breaking because they lacked energy.

One tough theater permitted to run in defiance of law gives the police more trouble because of the crimes it occasions than it would be to close and keep closed every disreputable establishment in the Central District.

Complaints of robberies in the wine rooms and private boxes of these establishments constituted a large proportion of the police reports before the Post-Dispatch induced the authorities to do their duty.

Scarcely a night passed without one or more cases of this kind being reported. Sometimes the victim got a knock out drop, sometimes he was strangled, sometimes it was a plain case of robbery, and sometimes it was a confidence game. The criminals who infested these dives were conversant with all the approved methods of separating a man from his "roll."

When Capt. O'Malley was put in charge of the Central District he took cognizance of the information the Post-Dispatch gave the police, and notified the managers of the theater dives that they must close.

They were inclined to rebellion but the Newberry law, forbidding the sale of liquor in buildings used for theatrical purposes, was too explicit. They pleaded for leniency, but Capt. O'Malley, backed by Chief Harrison, was inexorable.

The Winter Garden on Broadway, and the London Theater on Fourth street, were the first to give in. They were particularly objectionable because they attracted a disreputable class of society that had no pretensions to respectability.

The other "joints" on Sixth and Seventh street held out but for a few days. They were finally closed, except Mrs. Elizabeth Esher's Palace Theater on Elm street, near Seventh.

Mrs. Esher's place was about as bad as the others, but it was not particularly objectionable because it was a saloon, and the Newberry law, forbidding the sale of liquor in buildings used for theatrical purposes, was too explicit. They pleaded for leniency, but Capt. O'Malley, backed by Chief Harrison, was inexorable.

There is no addition to the building Mrs. Esher could rent for a saloon and thus evade the Newberry law. The saloon liquor and runs a theater in that block both will be done in the same building.

Capt. O'Malley was asked what he intended to do about it.

"This is the first I have heard about the reopening of the saloon," he said. "If the Newberry law is violated we will attend to Mrs. Esher right quick."

"Have these people received any assurance that they may run this season?" "Not from me," he said. "And I don't believe they have it from anyone else. If they conduct the business in violation of the law, I cannot interfere, but if they break the law I will close them up."

"What about the Palace Theater?" "That is not under violation of law. No drinks are sold there and the audience and the saloon is in another building."

Louis Kuehn, Jr., is proprietor of the Palace Theater—Mrs. Esher's old place. The theater license is made out to Charles M. French, but Kuehn is the owner and real manager. He does not use his name in the theater because he wishes to keep it distinct from his saloon.

"I'm running this place according to law," said Kuehn, "and it is as respectable as anybody's theater. No drinks are sold except in the saloon, which is in another building, and there are no wine rooms and no dark boxes. I have my family here and I am going to keep the place decent. I can make just as much money by running a respectable place as by keeping such a dive as these cheap joints used to be, and even if I didn't make so much I would rather be inside the law. We give a good show and if the audience want to come in the saloon and get a drink between acts it's their business. They can't get it in the theater."

A walk through the theater showed that Kuehn spoke truly about the removal of the dark boxes and the wine room. The Globe Theater, on Seventh street, between Walnut and Olive, was closed. So is the Winter Garden at Sixth and Spruce. The old Bryant's, at Sixth and Olive, was closed. The Casino, at Sixth and Olive, is being converted into a business house.

AFTER YEARS OF PRIESTLY SERVICE.

Rev. Francis Henry Stuntebeck Celebrates His Golden Jubilee in the Jesuit Order.

TAUGHT HERE MANY YEARS.

Celebration at the St. Louis University by the Faculty and Friends of the Priest.

The faculty of students in the Philosophical and Theological Departments of the St. Louis University are celebrating Friday the golden jubilee of Francis Henry Stuntebeck's accession to the Jesuit order. The ceremonies were exceedingly quiet. At 9 o'clock Fr. Stuntebeck celebrated low mass in St. Francis Xavier's church, and Rev. William Hill, a classmate, who celebrated his golden jubilee last February, preached the sermon. Following the mass there was a jubilee breakfast in the community refectory, at which happy speeches of congratulation were made by members of the order.

During the day numbers of Fr. Stuntebeck's old students, many of whom are now gray-headed men, called to extend congratulations.

Fr. Stuntebeck was born Nov. 7, 1829, the year in which the St. Louis University was founded, in the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, Germany. He came to this country with his parents in 1837, and lived in Cincinnati. On Aug. 6, 1847, he entered the Jesuit Novitiate at Pleasant, Mo. During the novitiate he was assigned to the St. Louis University, where he was for years professor of physics and astronomy. He is a striking looking man, over 6 feet broad and erect. He wears a flowing white beard. His manners were quiet, but he is noted for his wit. He had a great fondness for music, and in his younger days was quite a tenor singer.

During the recent celebration of the golden jubilee of the Loreto sisters at Forest, Fr. Stuntebeck and Fr. Hill were prominent figures. Both men had seen the founding of the academy, and had watched its career through half a century. In the early days, when the Sisterhood was struggling, Fr. Stuntebeck and Fr. Hill often carried provisions from the Novitiate to the little community.

Within the last eighteen months catarrhs have developed in Fr. Stuntebeck's eyes, but beyond that he has none of the infirmities of old age.

The golden jubilee of Fr. Hill and Fr. Stuntebeck will be the last in the Jesuit order until 1899, when Fr. Hayes of Chicago will be the last of the order.

Fr. Stuntebeck has three sisters and a niece living in Cincinnati. The latter took the vow of a nun in the convent of St. Joseph at that place last Tuesday.

He is now a few thousand dollars in debt, but he will be years before he is completely impoverished by the tornado which he will give up his pastorate and don the clerical habit with his intended mission unfilled.

"I cannot deny this report," he said. "It is true. For five years I have cherished the intention of entering the cloister after I had completed my twenty-five years of pastoral duty. I have been waiting for the right time, and I have been waiting for the right place. I cannot take this step without my archbishop's permission. If he chooses to have me stay here among my people I will remain. You can see it is hardly proper for his absence from the city."

And why am I going to the cloister after twenty-five years of parochial work? It is not disappointment. I have been happy in my pastoral life. I have served in works I want to serve in prayer and contemplation."

Fr. Hoffman cannot defer his intention to enter the cloister until this time. He will give up his pastorate and don the clerical habit with his intended mission unfilled.

Fr. Hoffman Would Retire From the World After 25 Years' Parochial Work.

HIS AMBITION THWARTED.

Hoped to Build a New Church, but the Great Cyclone Spoiled His Plans.

Awful May 27 of last year spoiled a cherished plan of Rev. August Hoffman, pastor of St. Henry's Church, at California avenue and Rutger street. Hopes and ambitions went with homes and happiness as the wind swept by. When the terrible day had passed, the dream of Father Hoffman's life had vanished. He has privately announced his intention of resigning his pastorate and entering the Franciscan order, but he will not go as he hoped to.

His retirement to the cloister was intended to be the completion of a priestly career.

After years of protest that she is sane, aged Mrs. Anna Stell will for the third time be locked up in an insane asylum. That Mrs. Stell's mind is affected no one who knows her doubts, and Public Administrator William C. Rickardson thinks her condition is serious enough to warrant her incarceration in the City Asylum, from which she was released eighteen months ago.

Mrs. Stell is the widow of Frank Stell, who kept a shoe shop at 114 Franklin avenue. Her husband died in 1880, leaving her property valued at $35,000. Not long after her husband's death Mrs. Stell showed signs of eccentricity. She had been a capable business woman and kept her husband's accounts. The management of the estate kept her busy with deeds, papers and bills and the strain was too much. The first peculiarity her friends noticed was that she seemed to think she was immensely wealthy.

To-day she is living almost in squalor, but this delusion has never left her. From thinking she was a millionaire she came to believe that people were trying to rob her out of her wealth.

The courts had a peculiar fascination for her. Without reason she plunged into litigation and despatched her fortune, paying retaining fees to lawyers. Her cases seldom helped her. She stated the cases so plausibly that often it required a great deal of time and money to run them.

She spent hundreds of dollars bringing suits in Justice's courts against supposed enemies.

In 1883 she sued her son, Frank J. Stell, who times, Frank the asylum on the night of April 27, 1894. She advertised extensively for the asylum, but never found him.

She said that while in the asylum she had been given her money by mistake and she made out a receipt for it.

As if to further test the power of endurance, the officers made him walk to the fourth district police station, and the load of potatoes. He did not grumble at the task thus imposed and declared that if he had another sack of equal weight he could balance it on the other shoulder and get along more easily.

Connor is in the holdover and a warrant charging petit larceny was issued against him.

RAY BROOKS' DEATH.

A Coroner's Verdict of Suicide Rendered in the Case.

The Coroner's verdict in the case of Ray Brooks, who died at the City Hospital Wednesday morning, was suicide by morphine poisoning. The young woman took the drug Monday night at her room, 101 South Twelfth street.

The dead woman's real name is said to be Mrs. Lillie Fullerton, but her address is not known to the woman with whom she lived. Ambrose Loyer, the porter in the house where she lived, said that on Monday she asked him what was the best thing she could take to kill herself. He thought she was only joking and passed the question off with a laugh. That night she took the deadly dose.

CARRYING OVERWEIGHT.

Frank Connor, a 17-Year-Old Lad, Gives the Police a Race.

Seventeen-year-old Frank Connor gave a remarkable exhibition of physical endurance Friday morning—something that few athletes could do.

Pursued by two policemen and a private watchman, Connor made a run of a dozen blocks, but when a pistol was placed in his hand he stopped.

How Connor obtained the potatoes is only a side issue—an immaterial feature.

At 2 o'clock Friday morning Henry Suedloff, a truck farmer living near Price Street, St. Louis County, was driving along Franklin avenue with a load of vegetables for market. In the rear of his wagon was a 10-pound sack of potatoes. He alleges that the sack could not be seen by the police as Connor, slipped up behind the wagon and stole the potatoes. The theft was at

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CAMERON, Mo., Aug. 6.—Last night at 10 o'clock while City Marshal Leonard was making his rounds in the yards of the Hannibal & St. Joe road at this place, some one made an attempt upon his life. He was passing between two long rows of freight cars when a pistol was placed at his head and he was ordered to stop.

Fortunately the bullet struck a pocket-book full of papers in his coat pocket, stopping its progress. Mr. Leonard drew his revolver and shot at his assailant twice, but the shots did not seem to see to take aim and the scoundrel escaped.

About three months since Leonard arrested a tramp whom he had to handle roughly before he would let him go. The tramp swore he would kill Leonard if it took him ten years. He was sent to jail at the City Jail, and was kept there for a week. He was then released, but he was seen in the yards several times of late, but always managed to escape.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

THE BIG RACE MEET.

It Was Commenced at Philadelphia Early This Morning.

TOM COOPER A WINNER.

Eddie Bald Excused and Johnny Johnson Unable to Start.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 6.—A more delightful day could not have been asked for than that which formally inaugurated the big race meet of the League of American Wheelmen here to-day. The warm sun was tempered by a cool, northwesterly breeze.

The Willow Grove track was a revelation to the visitors. They had never seen such a race course, specially constructed with wood, lightning fast, solid as a rock and entirely surrounded by seats, with a seating capacity of nearly 20,000.

As early as 8 o'clock the crowds began arriving, and when the first hot sun was off a good crowd was present. The day was perfect for racing. A light breeze swept across the track from the north-west.

All the riders were delighted with the weather, and track and everything was in proper condition for fast time.

Johnny Johnson was injured on Wednesday while training on the track was out this morning trying his stiffened legs. He appeared to be in rather bad shape, and there was every evidence that he would not be able to race. He proposes, however, using liniment until the last minute, and if there is the slightest chance of his making a show he will enter in the morning trials. The first three men will qualify in the two-mile handicap professional and in all the other races the first two with the exception of the quarter-mile championship professional in which only the winner of each will enter for the final.

The first even race was the two-mile handicap, professional. This was in six heats and in all there were about eighty fairs. First heat—F. J. Loughhead, Sarina, Ont., 4:15. Second heat—E. J. Titus, New York, 4:15. Third heat—C. R. Newton, 4:15. Fourth heat—C. R. Newton, 4:15. Fifth heat—C. R. Newton, 4:15. Sixth heat—C. R. Newton, 4:15.

Tom Cooper was scratched man in the second heat of the two-mile race, with Arthur Lee on the fifty-yard line and in the third heat, Cooper, scratch, won; Fred Sims, Washington, 10 yards, second; J. A. Newhouse, Buffalo, 10 yards, third. Time, 4:15.

Arthur Gardner of Chicago was scratched man in the fourth heat, with Sharkey the nearest at forty yards. Arthur lost two yards at the crack of the pistol. All hands went out for blood, and a rapid pace was kept up until the finish. Gardner won; A. A. Callahan, 50 yards, second; Barney Oldfield, 10 yards, third. Time, 4:15.

Eddie Bald, scratch man, was excused in the fifth heat, with Cooper, scratch, won; Fred Sims, Washington, 10 yards, second; J. A. Newhouse, Buffalo, 10 yards, third. Time, 4:15.

Johnny Johnson was unable to start in the sixth heat of the two-mile professional handicap and F. A. McFarland was the other scratch man, with James A. Church on the 40-yard line. F. A. McFarland, 40 yards, second; Frank M. Dampman, 25 yards, third. Time, 4:15.

Charles A. Callahan, 50 yards, second; O. V. Babcock, New York, second. Time, 4:15.

Sixth heat—E. D. Stevens, Buffalo, won; Fred J. Moran, Chicago, second. Time, 4:15.

Seventh heat—L. A. Powell, New York, won; A. M. Zimbrick, Rochester, second. Time, 4:15.

Eighth heat—B. M. Blake, Keene, N. H., won; William H. Pearson, New York, second. Time, 4:15.

Ninth heat—Charles Coleman, Saratoga, won; Joseph P. Rogers, Philadelphia, second. Time, 4:15.

Tenth heat—E. J. Eabody, Chicago, won; Chas. Nelson, Springfield, second. Time, 4:15.

The third event was the quarter mile championship professional and was run in five heats. Winners only to qualify. All the cracks were already in the first heat. Major Taylor, the color crack, from Massachusetts, took the lead. Tom Cooper of Detroit kept it to himself for the rest of the race. Time, 32.25 seconds.

Becker, Loughhead and Newton, all of whom were in the second heat, took the lead in the third heat. The fourth heat was a beautiful sprint. Time, 24.25.

Eddie Bald, A. C. Mertens of St. Paul, O. L. Stevens, Ottumwa, Io., and Harry West of Philadelphia, started in the third heat. The fourth heat was a beautiful sprint. Time, 24.25.

The fifth heat was a repetition of the fourth, with W. M. Randall of Rochester a better winner in 21.25. Barney Oldfield was a length behind and Owen S. Kimball of Louisville a good third.

THE GREAT YOUNG PUGILIST SAYS HE WILL FIGHT FITZSIMMONS.

HIS BATTLE WITH TOM RYAN.

He Believes He Will Win That and That He Will Also Defeat Creedon.

Kid McCoy, the great young pugilist, is going to attempt a feat that is without a parallel in the history of pugilism. As is well known in athletic circles, McCoy is matched to fight Tommy Ryan, once the champion welter-weight, for $1,000 a side. Their meeting is to take place on September 1, at the Casino, New York.

Next Monday night he will box four rounds with Jimmy Freary at Cincinnati for the benefit of the striking miners. Tuesday he will box two rounds with an unknown at Louisville. Thursday he boxes ten rounds with Dan Bayliff at Dayton, O., and Monday night, August 9, he will go ten rounds with Gus Gorman at Cincinnati. No other pugilist with a match on his hands less than thirty days away ever undertook such a task as McCoy has laid out for himself.

"Aren't you afraid that you will break up your hands taking on so many fights?" was asked of the Kid.

"No, I have no fear on that score. My hands are in excellent shape, I fight carefully and have never hurt them in any of my other engagements. I don't do much swinging and generally know where I am hitting when I let go. Tommy Ryan must think pretty well of his chances against me."

"Well, he has signed to fight, winner to take all. This shows he thinks pretty well of himself."

"What do you think of his chances?" "I think he will do it in ten times. I have bet $100 on the outside that I will win."

"How about your match with Creedon?" "Each of us has $1,000 posted and we will fight just as soon as we get a purse. If they are going to give Maher and Sharkey a fight, I will get Creedon and myself for $10,000. I think we are worth a great deal more than they are. I think I will be able to whip both."

Tom Cooper had the field in the third heat and the nearest man were J. A. Newhouse, 50 yards, and Dock Brown, 50 yards. For the first few laps the pace was fast, but they soon bunched and lapped to the finish. When the winner crossed the line, Cooper, scratch, won; Fred Sims, Washington, 10 yards, second; J. A. ## PITTSBURGH AND ST. LOUIS PLAYERS WATCHING THE GAMES AT BOSTON.

THE ORIOLES' GRAND WORK.

Lucid Pitches a Vastly Improved Game for the St. Louis Club.

The players of the St. Louis and Pittsburgh teams watched the Boston-Baltimore game very closely yesterday.

The game between the two leaders, which was played in Boston Thursday, was one of the real tests, as showing just who is going to win this year's pennant.

The Pittsburgh players, before the game at Boston, were played, expressed themselves as favoring Baltimore.

The St. Louis boys also picked Baltimore to win.

Both teams picked the winner, as Baltimore went in and hit Nichols, Boston's crack pitcher, for more runs than any team has hit him this year. Baltimore won by 5 to 4, outplaying the Boston's at every point.

"If the Baltimores can beat the Bostons at home that easily," said Alex Moore, the Pittsburgh's scorer, "and with Nichols, Boston's crack pitcher, facing them, what will they do to the Bostons when they get the latter on their own ground at Baltimore? I tell you, Baltimore is going to win the flag, and to-day's game comes as near proving that as anything I know of."

All the St. Louis and St. Louis players were of the same opinion as Mr. Moore. The Browns won their game from Pittsburgh yesterday by the close score of 8 to 7. Lucid pitched and his work was a big improvement over that which he did here last week.

Hallman, too, appeared to move around livelier and he showed that he was fast improving from the spiking given him by Billy Hamilton.

Harley retired in the third inning, giving way to Houseman. While trying to capture a fly ball from Fadden's bat, Harley hurt one of his fingers so badly that he will be out of the game for some time. During his absence Houseman will cover the outfield.

Turner got back in the game yesterday. He walked to first twice, got in a safe hit and was retired once. All this was out of him.

Two men amateur or semi-professional teams that will be a battle royal sure enough. It will be a game that will easily compare with many of the games being played in the city.

But it will be more interesting to the local crowd in the wool ball cranks than any League contest for the reason that every player on either side is a St. Louis boy and learned the rudiments of the game in the Belleville Clerks and the Sporting News teams.

Neither team has lost a single game this year and now for the first time some one must perform of circumstances take a tumble.

ARGUED WITH BRICKS.

Lively Row Between a South Side Boss Horseshoer and Some Journeymen.

POLICE PROTECTION ASKED.

Both Sides Anxious for a Decisive Combat, but Neither Wishes to Start It.

Organized journeymen horseshoers and organized boss horseshoers are arrayed against each other in South St. Louis. Each side is asking for a good excuse to start a row and mix up in the good old-fashioned way, but neither side wants to assume the responsibility of starting it.

John Schaffer has a shop at 338 South Broadway, in the old building where the Horseshoers' League, the same as Ed Butler and other magnates of the avil, he has refused to concede the demands of the journeymen, so they have squared matters in a most effective way. Under the leadership of Timlin, journeyman of the union, they have opened a shop half a block away from Schaffer's place. The journeymen's co-operative place is on the alley which runs just back of Schaffer's, so that in going back and forth the journeymen have to pass Schaffer's.

The journeymen's shop has been running only about two weeks, but in that time they have succeeded in taking a great deal of business from their enemy. Whole droves of horses from Lemay and a lot of the men from Anheuser's go past Schaffer's now to the new shop.

This naturally hurts Schaffer's feelings and he expresses his dissatisfaction in true blacksmith style by threatening to whip any journeymen who ventures near his shop. The journeymen, on the other hand, say they are not looking for trouble, but are simply doing their business. It is not Schaffer they are after, but a big fellow named Baker, who is not a horseshoer, but who is always around Schaffer's shop. This Baker, the journeymen say, is a source of great annoyance to them. He calls them "scabs" and jeers at them every chance he gets. He will not come to the scratch and fight, but comes himself to taunt and jeers at long range.

Schaffer every evening, after working hours, has a debate over Schaffer's back fence with stones and half bricks. No one was hurt, but the stones flew fast and thick for a while. Schaffer has requested that a policeman be stationed at his shop continuously, as he fears an outbreak at any moment. His request for a guard has not been complied with, because the journeymen have promised not to molest him unless he first molests them. They will, however, make it their business to keep him from doing any mischief, regarding the big fellow Baker. If they get him they say they will do him up in the most approved style, because he does not properly belong in the fight, being neither a journeymen nor a boss, but a rank interloper.

Schaffer says he will fix them, but does not know his fixing is to be done. "We are asked what he means he merely nods his head, looks wise and repeats, 'Never mind, I'll fix them.'"

Special excursion Sunday, August 8, via R. & O. S.-W. Ry. to Washington and Vincennes, Ind. and intermediate points. $1.00 for the round trip. Ticket Office, 105 N. Broadway and Union Station.

SUES FOR MAINTENANCE.

Mrs. P. Horsfall Says Her Husband Does Not Support Her.

Mrs. Emma J. Horsfall of Ellendale has brought suit against her husband, Percy L. Horsfall, for maintenance, alleging that he left her last March and has since neglected to support her and her three children. He filed a suit for divorce in May, but subsequently withdrew it. Horsfall says he allows his wife $20 a month. She asks the court for permission to sell her real estate. Her husband says he gave her property worth $7,500 and told her she could sell it if she wanted to.

"I want to be away from St. Louis about ten years," said he to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I return wealthy and dazzle my old friends."

Glass That Was Hurlled
at Him.

The man, who was wearing a dark suit and tie, was seen by several people in the crowd. He was seen to be in a state of distress, and was being helped by several people. The man was seen to be in a state of distress, and was being helped by several people. The man was seen to be in a state of distress, and was being helped by several people.

But I was so angry that I intended to strike anyone. I thought, by hitting the back-stop, that I would get away and the umpire would protect myself, even if the home team did not provide the police protection. I was not going to let anything else go no further attempt to assault me. As luck would have it, three above the plate were watching me. They would have nothing against him. I would not hit him now if I should see him. I am not a violent person. I am very sorry. I feel I acted in self-defense. "My daughter is about 35 years old. He is unmarried. He is a very nice person. He played ball in minor leagues. Before losing his attention to the game he was a professional. He has been an umpire for 10 years."

"Now I'm a pease man and when Dreyer tells me to go into the house and close the door. Now you can see for yourself that he is disturbing my peace."

Dreyer tells a different story in his own book.

"It was just like this," said he. "Toel owed a plumber's bill of $10.00. He kept putting it off and off. Finally he said, 'Finally the plumber told him if he didn't pay the bill the next day, he'd kick him. Toel came to me and borrowed $10, with which he paid the plumber.'"

"I kept a saloon at that time and Toel owed me a bar bill. One day I asked him for the money and he got fussy. I put him in the back room and took the iron out of the sewer which was being dug in front

Mat Kelly and Mattie Kelly, alias Klotz, were placed on trial Friday noon in the First District Court.

Two Republics of Mexico and the San Antonio Daily Light. He is also commissioner from Texas to Mexico. Mr. Taylor said: "I answered an advertisement some time ago in which Mrs. Porter asked for assistance in some literary work. Miss Porter was a widow of a prominent citizen in St. Louis and I have never attempted to deceive them as to who I was, nor as to the fact that I was a married man. I told them I was a writer and they gave me a plum and explained to them how I happened to assume it. The fact that I am a descendant of nobility I have never made any secret of."

Mrs. Porter of 3417 Bell avenue says that she has always found Mr. Taylor to be a gentleman in every way and that as far as she is concerned she has no quarrel upon her or decide her in the least.

Ex-Gov. Francis Not Interested, but Believes the Boats Will Go Down

[illegible]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Liverpool market selected iters on course to-day, and instead of following yesterday's lead, they were higher. The best, No. 1, was bid at 10 1/2d, which grew to 11 1/2d at the opening hour. The consequence was that the strong undercurrent of business must have been due to a large amount of export business done at the seaboard manifested itself here by an advance in the price of the best No. 1 to 11 1/2d. There were 124 cars. Minneapolis and Duluth got only 201 cars, against 441 last year. After the first week of the season, the market was quiet, but on a renewal of liquidation, September opened 11 1/2d, or 1/2d higher at 11 1/2d, sold up to 11 3/4d, or 1/4d higher. Corn opened higher, with wheat, and receipts of only 731 cars, but soon lost the advance.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Butter—Receipts, 4,500

The appearance of Frank, Dan and Jim Hussey caused a stir in the Second District Police Court Friday.

The charge.

The men arrested are John Moore, Jno. McCormick, John Walsh and Richard Gibson. They all claim to be telegraph operators who formerly worked in the "pool rooms."

A single small telegraph instrument was found in the room occupied by the men, and the men were taken to the station leading to the room formerly used by Julius Lantz as a pool room.

No wire has been tapped in the city within the last year, so far as the police know. No complaints have been received from the managers of the Western Union or Postal Telegraph Cos. nor from the telephone companies operating in the city, running. Detective Keeley claims to have been watching these men for two days, having received information that wire-tapping was being operated in the city.

The cases were continued until Aug. 10.

The first home was established in 1902 at 1215 Elliott avenue, a six-room house. Three months later it was removed to a nine-room house at 2837 Thomas street. After two months it was moved to a five room house at 3740 Marine avenue. It remained there two years. The present house contains thirteen rooms. It shelters eighteen girls.

Last year 127 girls were rescued. Twenty-seven went back to immoral lives, thirty-

DARING WORK OF BURGLARS.

Wealthy Homes of the West End
Are Boldly Plundered by House-Breakers.

EXPERT AT DODGING BULLETS.

How a Man With a Brace and Bit "Fixed the Locks" for J. B. Carpenter.

HIS CHAT WITH A SERVANT.

Slumbers of Numerous Residents Broken by Nocturnal Visitors and Facts Suppressed.

The aristocratic residents of the West End have been troubled the last few days by house-breakers who can dodge bullets and be pleasant to servant girls.

James B. Carpenter, general manager of the New Home Sewing Machine Company, sent his family to the seashore a week ago
and closed his palatial home at 4215 West Morgan.

Mrs. Manley lives next door. Her servant girl was in the back yard hanging out clothes one afternoon. A rough-looking individual, wearing a suit from suit that did not fit him and toying with a bunch of whiskers on his chin with one hand, while in the other he carried a heavy brace and bit, jumped over the fence into the yard back of Mr. Carpenter's house from the alley.

Seeing the girl in the yard next door, this gentlemanly burglar tipped his hat and asked her who owned the yard where he was. When she told him he said:

"It's just the place I'm looking for. I'll fix the locks in the house," and with that he knelt down on the porch and began boring a string of holes about the lock in the kitchen door.

Mrs. Manley's servant told him he was ruining the door.

"What I know, but the family has lost the key," and he went on merrily with his work.
When he had knocked the lock out he went through the house, he being in there fully an hour. When he came out he carried on his back a wheat sack full of plunder.

"What have you got there?" the servant
next door asked him.

"Oh, those are the locks of the doors in the house," he replied, as he smiled. "I'll take them down and fix them as they are."
"But you're not going away and leave the house open?" asked the girl.

"That doesn't make any difference," he said, "there is nothing in there worth stealing now," and he disappeared up the alley, whistling happily.

Mr. Carpenter says that about $500 in silverware was taken, besides quantity of jewelry and a chest full of expensive lace and silks. "The police have the trace and bit which the burglar left behind him."

W. J. Tivy is only one of the residents in the block on Finney avenue, between Whittler and Pendergast, that has been awakened in the night to burglars prowling about the house.

He told the grocer on the corner that at 11 p. m. Wednesday he found himself sitting erect in bed watching a burglar ransacking an ebony casket on the wall and placing rare specimens of Mexican art in his pockets.

Mr. Tivy asked him what he wanted and the burglar made a "hot-foot" for the kitchen, where he climbed out of the window he had forced open and ran up the alley dodging the bullets Mr. Tivy sent after him. The burglar secured $50 worth of plunder.

Mrs. E. H. Winters was awakened in her home at 426 Finney avenue at 3 a. m. on Thursday by a man in her bedchamber.
She screamed and the burglar, with her pocketbook, rushed out the door, where he encountered Mr. Winters, and after knocking him down, walked over him and passed out of the front door, which he had previously opened with a skeleton key.

Mr. Winters followed him and from the doorway fired five shots at the burglar,
who only turned around and laughed at him.

Mrs. Winters' purse contained $2.45.
Neither she nor her husband could give a description of the burglar.

Two burglars forced an entrance to the residence of Frank Fout at 426 Finney avenue Wednesday night. After they had secured $200 worth of silverware and other valuable in a sack, Mr. Fout was awakened.
He got to the back of the house in time
to see the burglars going through the yard.
He called for help, and fired one shot at the thieves, but they did not stop.

Burglars tried to get into the residence of O. B. Webster at 417 Finney avenue, but were frightened away by the milkman.
He was able to give a good description of the men, and the police are now looking for them.

It is understood that there have been a great many burglaries in the West End
the last week, the facts of which the police are suppressing.

The sleepy merchant goes to the wall.
His wide-awake neighbor thrives by keeping goods that are in demand, and by never offering customers what he knows they do not want.

WIFE AND CASH GONE.

Savings of Two Old Friends Swept Away by a Faithless Woman.

MRS. GULLING'S INGRATITUDE.

Small Fortune Spent on Her,
Then She Took All That Remained.

Louis Bitch and his old friend and companion, Al. Gulling, are in no end of trouble over the faithlessness of a woman.

For four years Bitch and Gulling have worked side by side in the freight department of the Anheuser-Busch Brewery. They both came from the same part of the old country and grew to be close friends. They had implicit confidence in each other and shared their worldly goods without keeping particular account.

About two years ago Gulling, after consulting with his friend Bitch, decided to get married. He had $1,500 in gold American money stored away in a safe place. He had saved it by careful economy and by depriving himself of many little luxuries. The money was also from the old country and country and grew to be close friends. They had implicit confidence in each other and
shared their worldly goods without keeping
particular account.

About a year ago the baby was born and a serious illness of the baby followed. For six months Gulling spared no expense, and gave her all the comforts she needed.

He hired a nurse and spent from $25 to $30 a month for doctor bills.

Seeing a good opportunity to do a turn of business, he bought a boarding house on Broadway and a small street. His wife was almost well by that time, but she did not like the work, complaining of being too ill to attend to the many duties.

Gulling began to lose money on his investment and soon he saw the end of his savings. Then he turned to his friend Bitch, Bitch had $400 saved from the $1,500 he earned every week, and his $400 he handed over to Gulling to help him along with his boarding house. Gulling gave him no receipt nor writing for it. He merely promised to pay him back when he sold out the boarding house.

Two weeks ago he found a purchaser who was to pay him $375 for the house last Wednesday. True to his word the purchaser gave him $375 Wednesday night, and the remainder Thursday morning.

When he started Thursday Gulling told his wife
where the money was and told her to pay for the house. She worked Bitch all day and they talked over the adjusting of the money.

Bitch said Gulling could not pay him all the money at once if he had only $375 less the butcher bill. He said he would pay $320 and let the rest wait a while.

After work Bitch and Gulling went up to $400. $7.00 and $8.00—all uncertainly dumped together to settle up.

Mrs. Gulling was gone. The woman had left no word. She had simply packed up her own personal belongings and taken her husband's money and left. To some of the neighbors she said she was bound for
her home in the old country.

Gulling and Bitch hunted the neighborhood for some trace of the wife, only to learn that it was true that she had deserted her husband and gone off with the price of him. Bitch said she was gone. The woman had left no word. She had simply packed up her
own personal belongings and taken her husband's money and left. To some of
the neighbors she said she was bound for
her home in the old country.

Gulling suspected that perhaps Gulling had been deceived. He said he would pay him $320 and let the rest wait a while.

Then it struck Bitch that the $400 was not his. Gulling said he did not know. He said he would pay him $320 and let the rest wait a while.
